Presents Today

Mexican's Crime

Strong Western picture. Scenes in it that will make the cold shivers run up and down your backbone. It's a lurid picture-story of the west as it used to be in certain parts. It's a great favorite with audiences.

Aerial Elopement

How would you get married in the skies—with nothing under you for hundreds of feet but a light frail craft? Sounds good and it is.

Lucky Man

This is the comedy end of the entertainment and is up to the scratch.

To Save Her Soul

Biograph. The delightful, thrilling romance of a little choir singer. There's a preacher in it that does one good to see. He is man first and a minister afterward. Fully up to the great biograph reputation.

The Policeman's Christmas
A dainty touch of sentiment in a vividly interesting drama of every day happening in a great city. It is life as it—not as it ought to be.

Three Xmas Dinners

See the pranks some small boys cut-up to prolong the holiday feast. Lots of clean fun in it. It fits ends a superior program of pictures.
